

Tickets Now Available for ‘Good Faith After Hours’ in June

Editor’s note (04.03.20): This event has been canceled. Details are available here.

Good Faith Media (GFM) is hosting an after-hours event this summer during the Cooperative Baptist Fellowship’s General Assembly 2020.

GFM is a new media company being formed by Nurturing Faith and EthicsDaily that was announced in early February.

On Wednesday, June 24, GFM staff, board members and supporters will be at the Barrel Bar in White Oak Kitchen & Cocktails (270 Peachtree St. NW, 100) in downtown Atlanta for Good Faith After Hours from 9-11 p.m. local time.

This come-and-go social gathering will be a time of good faith with good friends in a relaxed environment at a venue directly across the street from the hotel and conference center hosting the assembly.

The event is open to all, but tickets are required because space is limited.

Tickets are available here for $15 per person, which includes event access, two drinks, as well as late-night snacks and desserts.

Please note: Ticket purchases are not charitable donations and so they are not tax deductible. Charitable contributions to support GFM can be made here.

“Good Faith Media is excited about participating in the Cooperative Baptist Fellowship’s General Assembly in Atlanta in 2020,” said Mitch Randall, CEO of GFM. “After worship on Wednesday night, we invite you to drop by White Oak (across from the Hyatt Regency) to relax and unwind with friends new and old as we celebrate the beginning of Good Faith Media.”

Additional GFM events at CBF’s assembly include: a large booth space in the gathering place featuring books, journals and other GFM resources, as well as a workshop featuring Imad Enchassi, imam of the Islamic Society of Greater Oklahoma City, author of “Cloud Miles” and subject of a short documentary, “Mercy.”
